TOWN COUNCIL.
Report of Finance Committee.

The town council met in the council chamber last Wednesday evening. Presented, the Mayor, Councillors Millward, Freese and Lindsay. A by-law was introduced by Councillor Freese authorizing an assessment for municipal taxes of ten mills on the dollar. The by-law was read three times and passed.

The clerk was instructed to communicate with W. H. Seath, with a view to getting $10,000 absolute deed to the town property.

The committee on Public Works and Property was authorized to purchase a couple of experimental pumps, and to ask for tenders for the erection of a town hall.

The report of the committee on Finance was presented. The report was as follows:

Your General Executive and Finance committee met to consider the estimates of the various standing committees which have been referred to them, and for the purpose of recommending a rate at which the municipal tax should be fixed for the current year, and they beg to report as follows:

We have continued the estimates of the committee on Police and Relief at $1025.
In the estimate of the committee on Fire Water and Light, we have considered the feasible to increase the rates for the town by the sum of $800 the considerations which led to this addition were that there are no other means of raising the money in the municipality who at present are purchasing water for all uses, at an average yearly cost of $15, representing the very large sum of $4500 expended for this purpose and your committee thought that if pumps were furnished to all the wells now under construction the expenditure would be for the town would be obtained from them without charge to the inhabitants, resulting in a great saving to our citizens, at the cost of a very small outlay. We have therefore confirmed these estimates at $1109, instead of $1025, as submitted. The estimate of the committee on Public Works and Property was confirmed submitted at $210, that of the committee on Markets and Health was confirmed at $200, which covers the purchase of a set of public weight scales and laying them down for use.

Your committee next proceeded to estimate the total expenditure of the municipality for the current year with a view to striking the rate of taxation which may be required to meet the same. The estimates for police and relief, 1025 00 Estimates for fire and light, 1109 00
Estimates for public works, 210 00
Estimates for markets and health, 200 00
Total, 2544 00
Deduct from total, 100 00
Balance, 2444 00
Leaving a total of, 2444 00
Less salaries and accounts already paid, 991 50

Leaving to be provided for by a balance of 1452 50
To meet this our estimate is a balance of 1452 50 $286,361 the amount of assessment outside the N. W. Land Co. assessment, 2863 00 Income from market fees and weight scales at an estimate calculated from March 1 to date which is the same as the estimate of $7.35 per month which for the remaining six months gives, 43 50 $286,361 less 43 50, 2859 10
Non residents' statute labour 137 00
Income from Police court, 274 00
Income from public works, 274 00
Total, 3434 10
Less balance of 1452 50, at $100 per month which for six months is, 600 00

Making a total of, 2834 10
This would leave a nominal surplus to the credit of the municipality of about one thousand five hundred and twenty six dollars. However your committee estimated there will be a shortage of the calculated receipts from both the municipal tax and the statute labour raising municipal taxes, leaving a shortage of other causes. How much this shortage will amount to your committee have no sufficient data on which to ground an opinion precisely, but they believe that the calculated deficit in these particulars exceed this and reach to twenty per cent of your committee is in no way unduly wide, the reduction in the receipt of $1000 would still leave a surplus of $2000 to the credit of municipality at the end of the year on the basis of the above items of expenditure not being exceeded.

Your committee have much pleasure in being able to submit a satisfactory state of the municipal finances and believe that the moderate rate of ten mills in the $ will meet all requirements they would therefore recommend the immediate passing of a by-law to raise a tax of ten mills in the dollar upon the assessed property of the municipality both real and personal all which is respectfully recommended.

PARIS, June 22.—In the Chamber of Deputies, M. De Freycinet, Minister of Foreign Affairs, submitted a draft of the treaty between France and China, which definitely confirms the right of France over Annam. The latter country must henceforth treat with foreign powers only through France. The treaty fixes the boundary lines between China and the French dependencies, and determines the conditions upon which the commercial relations between France and China are to be maintained. It states that it is the intention of China to construct a railroad with the assistance of French engineers in order to facilitate commercial relations.
France undertakes to occupy Tonquin and expel the bands of marauders at present infesting that country, and will respect China's prerogatives. Both countries agree to the extradition of offenders. China will respect the treaty between France and Annam.

WINNIPEG, June 22.—Last night two troops brought in a Wood Cree Indian, who gave the information that the Wood Crees had broken from Big Bear's camp and had taken the McLean and other prisoners with them. The Wood Cree were at Lac — and en route to Fort Pitt with the object of surrendering their prisoners.

Gen. Middleton says the programme in the event of the prisoners being safely delivered up will be to give the chase after Big Bear, place garrisons at the main points, and let operations be carried out.
He may therefore be expected that a few days will see the bulk of the troops withdrawn from the country.

Big Bear is travelling in this direction from the lake and can scarcely help falling into the hands of either Otter or Irvine. Big Bear is now supposed to be at Fort Loko.

Fort Pitt, June 22.—All the prisoners from Big Bear's camp were brought in by Col. Nelson this morning. Had a long chat with Mrs. McLean. She says that while they have suffered many hardships it might have been much worse. As long as the Indians had plenty of provisions they were comparatively comfortable, but they suffered towards the end from hunger. The Wood Cree had split off from Big Bear and had forced the latter to give up the prisoners who had been allowed to surrender to him or to any member of his tribe.

It is expected the troops will leave for home on Thursday.

ufacture of block payments.

LONDON, June 23.—As a result of the Queen's efforts, the Marquis of Salisbury has resolved to accept Mr. Gladstone's promise to use his influence with the Liberals to prevent free-trade opposition. It is expected that Lord Salisbury will announce the formation of a cabinet to-day.

The sum of fifty dollars and entrance fee was voted for prizes for rifle competition; details to be arranged by committee consisting of Major Dowling, Capt. Turbull, Capt. Mortimer and Councillor Freese.

The following sub-committees were also appointed: To prepare and lay off race course—Messrs. Cunningham, Scott, Dunn, Barron, and J. Clarke. Athletic sports—Messrs. Dick, O'Brien, Mark Carson, Kevin, Hannon, Neil McLeod and J.
Banerman.

On motion it was resolved to ask permission of the town council to issue licenses for the refreshment booths on the grounds at a certain fee to be hereafter determined.
In order to provide for all the prizes voted, about $150 more will be required, and it is to be hoped that the efforts of the committee to secure this deficiency will be met with success, and that an enjoyable day will be spent by our citizens.

Further details of the hours for the different sports, etc., will be published.

The general committee and the different sub-committees are particularly requested to meet at Clark's saloon on Saturday evening next, 27th inst., at 7 o'clock.

Range Record.

The total value of the cattle of Texas and of the range and ranch, north of Texas is about $340,000,000, which constitutes nearly 28 per cent of the total value of the cattle in the United States.

The sheep yearly slaughtered in the United States are recorded at 12,000,000. They furnish the principal source from which the wool of the country is secured, the addition being sheep dying from accident, dogs, and natural causes.

A project is on foot at Wells, Me., to start a rabbit ranch, for the purpose of supplying the Boston market. The ranch, if established, is to consist of 100 acres of land, and the idea is to work it at first with 1,000 or 2,000 large-sized animals from the West.

The daily products of the United States are a potent factor in the agriculture of the country. They covered the last crop $500,000,000, the wheat crop $1,000,000,000, the cotton crop $220,000,000, the product of iron bars and steel $217,000,000, and the pig-iron output $419,000,000.

There is universal rejoicing among the stockmen of Oregon county at the successful lambing season just past. We have reports of increase in flocks from 90 to 125 per cent and very few losses. Montana wool is in such demand that higher prices will be the rule this season, and the outlook for the sheep industry is more encouraging than ever before.

Merino sheep are said to have been first introduced from Spain into France, in the Paris district, in 1780. It was from there the French merino is said to have been introduced to the American merino. The latter are the descendants of the best Spanish sheep introduced into the United States early in the present century, upon the breaking up of the celebrated Spanish flocks, and carefully bred here.

The New York State Board of health, at the attention of the Illinois State Board of Health to a carload of hogs shipped from Chicago to Fredonia, N. Y., and sold in small lots to farmers and others. Many of the hogs have since died, fever which is supposed to be cholera. In several instances where one of the animals from Chicago was introduced, fatal results have been observed. An investigation will be made into the cause and nature of the disease.

In relation to the profit arising from range cattle, it is shown that the average cost of raising a steer on the ranges, not including interest on the capital invested, is usually estimated by the large stock-owners at from 75 cents to $1.25 a head. Thus a steer 4 years old ready for market has cost the owner $4 to $5 to raise. When driven to the railroad, he is worth from $25 to $45. A recent estimate approved by a number of Wyoming ranchmen places the profit at the end of the third year on a herd consisting of 2,000 steers with 1,000 yearlings and 500 short-horn bulls, representing in all, with ranch improvements and horses, an investment of about $200,000 to $300,000.

The annual report of the executive committee and secretary of the Wyoming Stock Growers' association for 1905 on the subject of Texas fever says: First, that Texas cattle brought from the southern part of Texas are dangerous to our cattle for about sixty days from the time they reach Southern Texas. Second, that Texas ranges. Any method of bringing them which places them on our ranges in less than that time should be discouraged, and cattle so brought should be refused admittance. Second, that the same cattle can be brought among our stock after said sixty days have elapsed with entire safety to us, and that, recognizing the friendly and profitable relations which have for many years existed between us and our Texas friends, there among the friends of a single unnecessary obstacle in the way of the Texas trade; that we are not using, and we will not allow to be used, any hostile or exaggerated charge of danger as a lever against their interests, but, on the contrary, if they will bring their cattle here harmless as they were from 1873 to 1884, the Wyoming association will raise no bar against them.

Wool Records.

Heavy wool records would seem to be following in the footsteps of the great milk records. It may be pretty readily said that the average yield in wool is about 10 pounds per head, or more, the weight of the sheep, but it may seem strange that the power of the sheep as a source of food. The public, however, would not be aware of knowing not only the weight of the fleece, but the number of days since the last shearing, and the length of the wool left on the sheep's back at the previous shearing. It would also be proper that the wool be placed in the hands of a committee, to be thoroughly and completely washed, dried, and re-weighed, in order accurately to get the amount of clean, dry, gun, and clean, and also iron filings, etc., sometimes sold to be contained therein. If a fleece should happen to lose 10 per cent, for instance, in this operation, it is not an increase, wonderful a fleece after all. The American Merino is undoubtedly the best fine-wool sheep in the world, but the value of a flock is not in the amount of dirty wool produced, but the amount of clean wool suitable for manufacturing purposes.

In this connection it is not intended to neglect the washing of wool in the sheep's back. On the contrary, it is probably better for the seller, as it certainly is for the buyer, that the wool be so treated. But the feeling certainly is a growing one that those yearly increasing heavy fleeces may perhaps contain something besides the "natural clean dirt."

The Future of Draining.

Upon this question Mr. Theodore McMinis is an elaborate statement, prepared for the Treasury Department in regard to the range and ranch cattle business of the United States, gives valuable information. The following summary will contain matter for thought not only to those engaged in range matters but also in relation to the future of every farmer and feeder in the West as showing that the future of grazing is full of problems and possibilities.

In the United States the annual consumption of meat is about 130 pounds per capita; in England, 109 pounds; in France, 74 pounds; and in Germany, 69 pounds per capita.

In 1864 the horses imported into England sold for $600 each; in 1893 the price had gone up to $800 each.

In France the increase since 1873 was a fraction over 1 per cent, while in Germany the increase in the population was over 8 per cent.

Ten years ago stock cattle in Texas cost $1 per head, now they cost from $15 to $18 per head.

The grazing area is becoming circumscribed; the people, the most consumers, are rapidly increasing in numbers. Population does not rise enough, however, to cover their own consumption. State and National legislation in this country favors the small holder, and thus a population increase which will become impossible for the lands divided and subdivided into small holdings to furnish an adequate supply. Mexico in course of time seems likely to become the breeding ground in place of Texas.

The little town of Lafayette, Chambers County, Ala., is taking on airs. A horn in the town is blown in the afternoon, as a signal for the closing of stores, and a few minutes thereafter scarcely a soul is seen on the streets. The boys play baseball from six o'clock until dark. (Columbus Ga.) Enquirer-Sun.

Pleasant County, Georgia, has a post office named "Talking Rock." The origin of the name is thus stated: Some one discovered in the vicinity a large stone upon which had been painted the words, "Turn me over." It required considerable strength to accomplish this, and "let me feel some one else," was found painted on the under side of the stone.—Troy Times.

An old story of Mr. Dieranti is a good instance of endurance. Her husband was a man of great speed. His wife accompanied him, and in some unlucky manner, her finger got crushed in the door of the carriage. This severe cutting in was terrible, but she endured the pain rather than let her husband know of it. For fear he would be unable to deliver his address, he became deaf of himself for several days.

There is a pleasing tale illustrative of a Wisconsin man and containing a Wisconsin girl who attended a picnic and wandered some distance into the woods with the possible expectation that some one would follow her. While she was sitting on a log wondering if he would never come, a grizzly bear stole up behind her, and leaning his head against her leg, begged her with all his might. Dieranti closing her eyes the girl murmured: "O George, why don't you tell me the light?" Whereupon the grizzly bear went slowly back into the forest.

Hillard Wood, a negro living in Leary, is, properly speaking, an independent negro—in blackberry season. As soon as the blackberry crop begins to ripen, Hillard declines all propositions to work. He lives almost exclusively on berries and fruit during the time they last. He has been doing up this line for years and says he proposes to take full advantage of the blackberry crop as long as they hold out. When the fruit and berry season is over, Hillard accepts the alternative of work and vigorously pushes a jobshare the balance of the year. He believes in taking each day for itself.—Leary (Ga.) Courier.

"It will be Israel with surprise," says St. Stephen's Review, "that the German—of Mr. Gladstone has deliberately suppressed a dispatch containing the most heartrending details of Gordon's end. For once there is a month past the fact that the hero's death was brutally cut off has been known to the Cabinet. The terrible scene of this body having been stigmatized and kicked naked through the streets of Khartoum has been portrayed by a trustworthy correspondent; and yet because, forsooth, it was felt that such information would be distasteful to the English people and probably imperil the position of the thirteen persons who stay the destinies of this country, the story has been rigidly concealed."

At a provincial theatre, shortly after the oblique calamity, just before the performance, a fine-looking woman forced herself past the ticket-taker and planted herself fruitfully in and unoccupied stall. Presently the manager appeared and politely requested the lady to vacate. She declined.

"You cannot be allowed to remain, madam."

"I will."

"If you do not leave I must have you removed," ordered the manager.

"Thank you, my dear friend," said the woman, glancing at the manager. "I am a French girl and I'll follow 'em."

The manager looked around the packed house, and the woman remained.

The publication of Gordon's diary, if it takes place without change or alteration, will undoubtedly modify the opinion which has been formed as to his conduct in Khartoum. It will show that his action was often logical, erratic, and unaccountable. Gen. Gordon, in fact, seems to have been over-weighted with his responsibility, and his silence and aloofness were perhaps when he had anything to say. Attacks on the English Government would be of course occasion no surprise. General Gordon's denunciations, however, are scattered all round, and it will be found that his own associates do not altogether escape. In this diary is published in full, it will throw a new light on the relations of the General and General Stewart. The storm of hero-worship which broke out on the publication of Gordon's diary is already subsiding. It is said London World, and the General's diary in full would destroy a good many illusions. It is not probable that his friends will accept of the appearance of all that General Gordon wrote.

"Run for the doctor, quick! Help! Help! But baby has swallowed a nickel!" exclaimed Mrs. Schumann. "Miss girl, you make so much fuss of it it was a twenty-dollar gold piece. Be calm, Rebecca," replied Mrs. Schumann.

At a spiritual seance a woman desired to communicate with her dead husband. "It is really such a dreadful place, John?" "Not at all! Heaven is a delightful place!" "Mr. Medium," said the wife, turning to that personage, "you have called up the wrong party."

J. O'Connor Power, member of Parliament for County Mayo, says that politics would be intolerable but for the amusement afforded by the very lowest. "Mr. Medium," said the wife, turning to that personage, "you have called up the wrong party."

The terrible scene of this body having been stigmatized and kicked naked through the streets of Khartoum has been portrayed by a trustworthy correspondent; and yet because, forsooth, it was felt that such information would be distasteful to the English people and probably imperil the position of the thirteen persons who stay the destinies of this country, the story has been rigidly concealed."

At a provincial theatre, shortly after the oblique calamity, just before the performance, a fine-looking woman forced herself past the ticket-taker and planted herself fruitfully in and unoccupied stall. Presently the manager appeared and politely requested the lady to vacate. She declined.

"You cannot be allowed to remain, madam."

"I will."

"If you do not leave I must have you removed," ordered the manager.

"Thank you, my dear friend," said the woman, glancing at the manager. "I am a French girl and I'll follow 'em."

The manager looked around the packed house, and the woman remained.

The publication of Gordon's diary, if it takes place without change or alteration, will undoubtedly modify the opinion which has been formed as to his conduct in Khartoum. It will show that his action was often logical, erratic, and unaccountable. Gen. Gordon, in fact, seems to have been over-weighted with his responsibility, and his silence and aloofness were perhaps when he had anything to say. Attacks on the English Government would be of course occasion no surprise. General Gordon's denunciations, however, are scattered all round, and it will be found that his own associates do not altogether escape. In this diary is published in full, it will throw a new light on the relations of the General and General Stewart. The storm of hero-worship which broke out on the publication of Gordon's diary is already subsiding. It is said London World, and the General's diary in full would destroy a good many illusions. It is not probable that his friends will accept of the appearance of all that General Gordon wrote.
